Evidence Based Practices for Autism Spectrum Disorders

Presented by Kristine Bretl, M.ED., BCBA

The video entitled What are the evidence based practices for Autism and How Can I Find Out More About Them? is rich in information.

Evidence Based Practices (EBPs) for autism spectrum disorders have been identified by two national projects, the National Standards Project from the National Autism Center and National Professional Development Center on Autism Spectrum Disorder. Learn about the EBPs that these projects have identified and what that means for school districts. Educators need to know how to gain more information on the EBPs that will match the needs of their students with autism. Supports that are available through these projects are shared and discussed, and viewers will learn how to find more extensive information on using EBPs within their classrooms.

Five additional resources have been made available to accompany this presentation.

Running Time: 56:25 minutes; Learning Credits: 1.25
