Seeing the Forest through the Trees

Seeing the Forest through the Trees: Strategies for Creating Accessible Lessons

Presented by Mark Dohn, Independent Consultant for Teaching and Learning

The greatest victory of technology use with persons with disabilities has been the students' ability to access content and express understanding. But as technology in education has increased, educators have begun to rely more and more on apps that are designed for a specific use. In this presentation we will learn how to step back and design an environment that is more flexible, creative and open to new possibilities in the use of apps and technology in the classroom to support all learners.

Running Time: 1:00 hour Learning Credits: 1.25
