Mental Health

Presented by Lori Hamilton, Assistant Director of Special Education, SE Kansas Education Service Center—Greenbush

Children's mental health is without a doubt the most important aspect of any child's social and cognitive development. Children with mental health issues will have a difficult time acclimating to different situations. Studies have shown that these children, if left untreated by a mental health professional, will likely grow up and repeat these same behaviors with their children. These children tend to have a lower self-worth, negative feelings, perform poorly in school, and later become involved in unhealthy lifestyle decisions. However, when these children are properly treated they can learn how to live a more promising life.
